

COMMANDER OF LEGION MAKES GREAT ADDRESS

(By Associated Press)
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 5.—John G. Emery, national commander of the American Legion, yesterday issued the following Independence day statement:

"There is a land of vision made of passion brought to a self-reliant race of colonists the vision of a new nation. States of these colonies met, drafted and signed the deathless document which proclaimed that man to the world. Soldiers and sailors of these colonies through a war of war fought in support of that declaration and at Yorktown achieved the victory which made the vision an accomplished fact."

"From the Alleghenies, across the Chesapeake and the western prairies, beyond the Rockies and to the waters of the Pacific was carried the national frontier by those who marched onward in fulfillment of the national vision. This vision of a united country triumphed in civil war over the vision of a divided one."

"With the world aflame with the conflict between the forces of oppression and autocracy from which our colonists fought themselves free and the forces of democracy and freedom which the victory of 1783 established in the world, we crossed the ocean to fight again. The vision which first revealed itself on these shores 145 years ago found a rebirth in victory of 1918."

"While proclaiming the effect, let us not overlook the same cause which made possible the world triumph of the vision of American ideals and institutions of government. The cause lies in the fact that in the beginning our colonies were inspired by a sense of individual responsibility and obligation to the state. What was true then is true today. Each of us, as individuals, has our duty and our obligation to our country. And in the loyal performance of that duty resides the hope and the security of our national institutions."

"The American Legion can have no higher mission than to continue to work to instill in the hearts of all this sense of individual obligation to community, state and nation."

BROKERS TAKE VACATION TO LAST SEVERAL DAYS

"The stock brokers of Tonopah are having a vacation and there will be no call on the San Francisco exchange until next Monday morning, July 1. ESSEX WINS

Sturdy Light Car Defeats All
Competitors in its Class

Runs Second Only to an Automobile
Costing $5000

ONCE more has the car holding the transcontinental and world's endurance records shown the speed and stamina that have made it famous. Its time for the Nevada Classic Desert Road Race of 1015 miles, over a course marked by every natural obstacle, testing the dependability of a motor car, was but 31 hours, 53 minutes, 2 seconds.

Considered from every viewpoint the performance of this ESSEX, with stock chassis, especially in comparison with that of the large, costly car, equipped with a special racing body, was truly remarkable. For the thousandth time it has proved itself to be the world's premier light car. And what this Essex did any Essex will do.
